PROGRAM OF EVENTS

Workshop and Outdoor Walk:

"Got Oxygen?" by Trish Corcoran

Time: 9:40 am

Location: Meet outside Sloan Performing Arts Center

Description: Got oxygen? Thank a tree, for that and so much more! Walk along the river and meet your neighbors (trees and plants). Learn about their community and consider what we take for granted, but should be grateful for.

Workshop:

"Crafting Truth Through Art" by Andrea Gluckman

Time: 12:40 pm

Location: Spurrier Dance Studio

Description: The traditional role of photography has largely been to document events, places, and people, but how can photography be used to help tell the hidden stories of history? How can technique, composition, and post production work be combined to create images to accompany hidden histories of communities left out of official/traditional historic narratives? How can images be created to capture a moment unseen by the photographer? Photography offers one artistic entry point to experience the oral narratives and people's histories, but how can other art forms perform similar functions in allowing people to experience hidden histories? How can art serve the cause of justice? Photographer Andrea Gluckman will share stories and photographs, while welcoming a discussion from the group as to how each individual's artistic offerings can offer portals to wider empathy.

The Good Mind Film Showing and Discussion

Time: 5:00-7:00 pm

Location: Gowan Room

Description: The documentary centers on the Haudenosaunee, the Onondaga Nation near Syracuse in particular. The film's journey reveals the Onondaga Nation's tireless environmental advocacy, and their legal battle with the U.S. over ancestral land taken by New York State in violation of a 1794 treaty with George Washington. Motivated by ancient prophecies, the Nation seeks environmental stewardship of their sacred land and waters, which have suffered vast degradation by industrial resource extraction and pollution.
